2026 Confirmed Details (Based on Official Announcements)

Pre-show	September 4 (Fri)

Participants	Fireworks teams representing 3 countries — Korea (Hanwha), the US, and the UK

Scale	About 1 million people every year — a record 4,700+ safety personnel deployed

It's the one day each year when the biggest crowd in Seoul packs into a single spot. Show up without a plan and you'll spend more time watching the crowd than the fireworks — this guide is that plan.

① 3 Mistakes Foreigners Often Make

1. Timing Your Arrival for Evening

The best lawn spots at Yeouido start filling up with picnic mats around lunchtime. If you want a front-row view, early afternoon arrival is the bare minimum — show up in the evening and you'll need to give up on the front row for one of the alternative spots below.

2. Heading Straight to Yeouinaru Station the Moment It Ends

Right after the show, crowd control has repeatedly turned Yeouinaru Station (여의나루역) into a stretch where trains pass straight through without stopping, or entry gets restricted (subject to same-day notices). Plan on a 20–30 minute walk home and head to a spread-out station instead — Saetgang (샛강), Singil Station (신길역), or National Assembly Station (국회의사당역) — that's the standard playbook.

3. Remembering "Fall Fireworks Festival = October"

Plan around the usual pattern (first week of October) and this year it'll already be over by the time you show up. 2026's date is September 5 — moved earlier to avoid the Chuseok (추석, Korea's autumn harvest holiday) break. If you're in Seoul during the first week of September, this is a must-add to your schedule.

② 6 Best Viewing Spots Compared — Where to Watch From

Spot	View	Difficulty to Secure	Character
Yeouido Hangang Park Lawn	Best frontal view	★★★★★ (from lunchtime)	Official main venue — peak crowds
Ichon Hangang Park (across the river)	Frontal view from the far bank	★★★★★	Official secondary venue — less crowded than Yeouido
Nodeul Island (노들섬)	Close-range side view	★★★★★	Can fill up early
Saetgang Ecological Park area	Side view	★★★	Best route home (Saetgang Station)
Seonyudo (선유도) · Yanghwa (양화) area	Distant view	★★	Avoids crowds + doubles as a night-view spot (#305)
Nearby rooftops · hotels	Framed view	Reservation only	The only "watch seated" option — books out months ahead

- The fireworks launch from a barge on the Han River — the closer to the riverbank, and the fewer bridges or buildings in your sightline, the better.
- The pre-show (Fri, 9/4) draws far fewer people than the main event — if crowds worry you, the pre-show is the hidden answer.

③ Day-Of Timeline (Main Event)

Time	What to Do
Noon–15:00 (3 PM)	Spot-hunters: claim your lawn spot with a mat — sun protection essential
15:00–17:00 (3–5 PM)	Everyone else: get in and settle — grab dinner to go beforehand ; on-site convenience stores (편의점, Korea's ubiquitous 24-hour corner store) and food trucks have brutal lines
17:00–19:00 (5–7 PM)	Sunset builds the mood — hit the restroom now (lines run tens of minutes later)
From around 19:00 (7 PM)	Fireworks show (each country goes in sequence — check same-day official notices for exact timing)
Right after it ends	Don't move right away — wait 30 minutes, or walk to one of the spread-out stations

Pre-Trip Checklist (Before You Travel · Morning-Of)

- [] Double-check the date — main event 9/5 (Sat), pre-show 9/4 (Fri). Check the official channel (the Hanwha fireworks festival site) on the day for any rain-related changes or cancellations
- [] Picnic mat / portable cushion — you can pick one up at a local convenience store, but Yeouido's stores commonly sell out on the day
- [] Portable charger — 1 million people packed together means network lag and fast battery drain (set a meeting point with your group in advance, in case messaging apps go down on the day)
- [] Dinner to go + water — on-site lines are brutal

- [] Exit strategy — walk to Saetgang, Singil, or National Assembly Station instead of Yeouinaru, or wait 30 minutes after the show ends
 - [] Where you stay — for this one night, a hotel within walking distance of Yeouido or along Line 9 is worth its weight in gold. Mapo (마포) or Gongdeok (공덕) are realistic alternatives

Verification Notes (Pre-Publish Check)

- Fact anchor (web-verified 2026-08-20): main event 9/5 (Sat), pre-show 9/4, Yeouido + Ichon, 3 countries (Hanwha, the US, the UK), 4,700+ safety personnel — cross-checked against Hanwha's official newsroom and multiple outlets (Herald, Kyunghyang, Seoul Shinmun — "3 weeks earlier than usual"). Free entry, no seat reservations, and 1-million-strong crowds are a recurring annual pattern.
 - Exact show timing and rain contingencies are same-day variables → flagged with a "check official channels" caveat. Yeouinaru's non-stop passthrough is phrased as "a recurring pattern (per same-day notices)" — not asserted as certain for this year.
 - Creative boundary: no specific rooftop or hotel names. Spot difficulty is a relative rating based on general patterns.
 - Coverage check: zero prior standalone pieces on the fireworks festival (only covered at the #404 listing level, checked 2026-08-20).
